Abstract: In today's era, in order to solve the ethnic problems in the new era, to do a good job of ethnic work and strengthen ethnic work is a necessary way to promote Chinese-style modernization. In terms of the logical relationship between the two, from the two levels of "the Chinese national community is the main driving force to promote Chinese-style modernization" and "Chinese-style modernization is the value pursuit of forging a strong sense of Chinese national community". Taking into account the new requirements of Chinese-style modernization, it proposes practical paths for further forging the sense of community of the Chinese nation in five dimensions: leadership, material foundation, cultural orientation, social security and ecological construction.

Key words: Chinese-style modernization; casting; Chinese national community

1 Introduction

Promoting the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation with Chinese-style modernization is a strategic task for China in the new era and new journey. Casting a firm sense of community among Chinese nation in the process of Chinese modernization is a comprehensive and long-term project, which requires the continuous promotion of theoretical, institutional and practical innovations in order to achieve the same goal and task. It is necessary to continuously promote theoretical, institutional and practical innovations in order to achieve the common goals and tasks of the two.

2 The dialectical relationship between Chinese modernization and the forging of a strong sense of community among the Chinese nation

Promoting the process of Chinese-style modernization is a strategic layout for achieving the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation, while forging a strong sense of Chinese national community is a strategic arrangement for doing a good job of ethnic work in the new era [1]. Both aspects are integrated with the great practice of socialism with Chinese characteristics, and they are complementary to each other. Awareness of the intrinsic logical connection between these two aspects can both strengthen the strength of the Chinese national community and help us to better grasp and reach our goals.

2.1 The Chinese national community is the main force in promoting Chinese-style modernization

General Secretary Xi Jinping stressed that "the proximity of people of all ethnic groups to one another is the fundamental guarantee that the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation will surely be achieved" [2]. These are important spiritual sources in the formation of the common ideals and value system of socialism with Chinese characteristics, and they have also been enriched and developed into one of the most basic ideologies of contemporary Chinese society by playing a unique role and being valuable assets in the great practice of socialism with Chinese characteristics in the new era. At the same time, in this big family, people of all ethnic groups watch out for each other, have a deep sense of brotherhood and sisterhood, and prosper together; this is the greatest impetus for the realization of modernization with Chinese characteristics.

2.2 Chinese-style modernization is the value pursuit of forging the Chinese national community

Our country has been endeavoring to improve the material and spiritual life of all ethnic groups. On the path of promoting the construction of Chinese-style modernization, all ethnic groups have gained a sense of well-being, security and achievement from the development, and it is also a concrete embodiment of our sense of community of the Chinese nation as our fundamental purpose. The Chinese nation is the creator of China's history and the master of its boundaries. Chinese culture is the most valued culture of the Chinese people, an idea that is deeply rooted in everyone's heart. In the long process of co-operation and development, people have gradually formed common values.

3 The path choice of forging the community consciousness of the Chinese nation in the perspective of Chinese modernization

In the new era, we need to deeply integrate the concept of the Chinese national community into the process of Chinese-style modernization [3]. On this basis, we should stimulate the unity and centripetal force of the people of all ethnic groups to realize the Chinese national community, and work together for the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation, in particular to promote the integration of all ethnic groups.

3.1 Fundamental premise: adhering to the leadership of the communist Party of China and upholding the core leadership of the Chinese national community

Since its founding, the CPC has always been committed to the rejuvenation of the Chinese people and has fought for the rejuvenation of the country. The CPC always keeps in mind its original heart and mission, and is committed to defending and promoting the fundamental interests of the Chinese nation. Secondly, the CPC adheres to the ruling ideology of "putting people first", which has laid a solid ideological foundation for the construction and development of the nation. The CPC is a force for China's socialist modernization, and it plays an important role in guiding and safeguarding the interaction, exchange and integration of various ethnic groups ideologically, organizationally and institutionally.

3.2 Key elements: accelerating the achievement of high-quality development in ethnic areas and consolidating the material foundation of the Chinese national community

Chinese-style modernization is the common prosperity of all people. The important mission of strengthening the sense of community of the Chinese nation lies in realizing prosperity and common development for all, so that people of all ethnic groups in the country can lead a better life. On the one hand, China's ethnic areas are vast and rich in resources, with good advantages in agriculture, forestry and animal husbandry. Promoting the harmonious coexistence of all ethnic groups requires that the fruits of development benefit the general public so that they can share the fruits of development [4].

3.3 Endogenous dynamics: promoting people's modernization and enhancing the cultural leadership of the Chinese national community

It has been emphasized at the Central Ethnic Work Conference that "we need to accurately understand the relationship between the material and the spiritual. First of all, it is necessary to strengthen publicity and education on the Party's ethnic policy and the idea of unifying the motherland in the new era. Secondly, education on ideals and beliefs should be institutionalized and made a way of daily work" [5]. We should do a better job of educating on the "five histories" and better integrate our concepts of patriotism, collectivism and socialism into our own lives. To build a high degree of cultural confidence, we must actively promote the development of socialist culture with Chinese characteristics, so that it can continue to innovate, develop and grow in practice, and eventually form a strong cultural synergy.

3.4 Foundations of governance: improving governance mechanisms and promoting social security in the Chinese national community

Our Party has always believed that in the process of Chinese-style modernization, harmonious coexistence and common progress among all ethnic groups are the key to achieving the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation. First of all, the legal system for the administration of ethnic minority areas should be strengthened. Insisting on equality before the law, we can better safeguard the rights and interests of people of all ethnic groups and legally guarantee ethnic equality [6]. On this basis, our governance system and capacity building in ethnic affairs should also be synchronized with the development of modernization. Only in this way can the people of all ethnic groups throughout the country enjoy the fruits of socialist modernization together.

3.5 Security barrier: strengthening ecological civilization and ensuring a green barrier for the Chinese national community

First, we must unwaveringly promote the harmonious development of the economy and society. Secondly, accelerate the construction of energy-saving and eco-friendly development methods in order to realize the sustainable development of people's actions and the economy; only in this way can we ensure that the local natural resources and ecological environment will not be affected too much, and that we can have enough time and space to repair and maintain them. Third, a sound system of institutions and policies are necessary. We will make new efforts to promote socialist modernization and the common development of the Chinese nation.

4 Conclusion

The road of Chinese-style modernization is a socialist thoroughfare for achieving national rejuvenation. Thereby, all Chinese children will move along the Chinese-style modernization path of common prosperity towards the goal of building a modern socialist country in all respects and advancing the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation in all respects.
