

Research on the application of "Fengqiao experience" in college student work

Jun YANG

Northwest University of Political Science and Law, Xi'an 710122, China

Abstract: "Fengqiao experience" originates from the practice of social governance at the grass-roots level in China. Its core lies in prevention, mediation and mass participation. These ideas have important reference significance for the work of college students. Through in-depth analysis of the core concept of "Fengqiao experience", combined with the actual situation of college student work, this study puts forward specific application strategies.

Key words: Fengqiao experience; college student work

1 Introduction

"Fengqiao experience", as a valuable asset in the field of social governance in China, has had a far-reaching impact nationwide with its unique contradiction mediation mechanism and social governance concept since its birth in the 1960s. It emphasizes to mobilize and rely on the masses, adheres to the governance mode of not handing over contradictions and resolving them locally, focusing on preventing and resolving contradictions, as well as Party and government hands-on and multi-party participation. These concepts and principles still have strong vitality and wide application value in the new era. As an important part of university governance, student work in colleges and universities has many similarities with "Fengqiao experience" in concept, goal and method. The application of "Fengqiao experience" in college student work will not only help to innovate the student work mode and improve work efficiency, but also better meet the diversified needs of students and promote the all-round development of students. Through this study, we hope to provide a new model of student work for colleges and universities, promote the innovation and development of student work in colleges and universities, and contribute to the growth of students and the stability and development of colleges and universities. At the same time, it is also expected to enrich the application fields of "Fengqiao experience" and inject new vitality into its inheritance and development in the new era [1].

2 Overview of "Fengqiao experience"

"Fengqiao experience" originated in Fengqiao town, Zhuji City, Zhejiang Province. At that time, Fengqiao town was facing the challenges of severe social security situation and frequent conflicts and disputes. In order to address these challenges, the local government and the masses have jointly explored a set of effective social governance models, namely "Fengqiao experience". The core of this experience lies in mobilizing and relying on the masses, insisting on solving contradictions on the spot without handing them over, and adhering to the governance model that focuses on prevention and conflict resolution, and insisting that the Party and the government take action with the participation of many parties.

The birth of "Fengqiao experience" is not only an effective response to the social governance problems at that time, but also the inheritance and development of the thought of "harmony is precious" in Chinese traditional culture. "Fengqiao experience" is a treasure in the field of social governance in China. The theoretical basis of "Fengqiao experience" is the organic combination of people-centered theory, contradiction theory, multi-party participation and collaborative governance and the idea of rule of law. Its profound theoretical basis provides solid support for its long-term successful practice.

3 Analysis on the current situation and needs of college student work

College student work, as an important part of the higher education system, carries the multiple missions of promoting the comprehensive development of students, maintaining campus stability, and promoting the inheritance and innovation of college culture. It covers students' ideological and political education, academic guidance, mental health education, career planning and employment guidance, student affairs management and other aspects. It is an important bridge connecting schools and students, society and students. Under the background of the new era, college student work is facing unprecedented challenges and opportunities. On the one hand, with the popularization of higher education, student groups show the characteristics of diversification and individuation, and their desire for knowledge, self realization and social participation is growing. This requires that student work must pay more attention to teaching students in accordance with their aptitude to meet the diversified needs of students. On the other hand, the rapid development of information technology, especially the wide application of Internet, big data, artificial intelligence and other technologies, has not only provided a new means and platform for the work of college students, but also brought problems such as information overload, Internet addiction, privacy disclosure and so on, which requires students to keep pace with the times and innovate working methods. The core of college student work is to promote the all-round development of students.

4 Analysis of the compatibility between "Fengqiao experience" and college student work

4.1 "Fengqiao experience" and college student work in the concept, objectives, methods

The coincidence of "Fengqiao experience" and college student work in concept, goal and method provides new ideas and enlightenment for college student work. In terms of concept, they both adhere to people-oriented approach, pay attention to the excavation and stimulation of individual potentials; in terms of goals, they both serve the harmony and progress of society; in terms of methods, they both pay attention to multi-party participation, collaborative governance, and actively use information and intelligent technology. These points not only provide useful reference for the college student work, but also provide new impetus and opportunities for promoting the innovation and development of college students work [2].

4.2 The potential value and significance of "Fengqiao experience" for college student work

"Fengqiao experience", as a successful model derived from grass-roots social governance, contains wisdom and principles that also have far-reaching potential value and significance in college student work. By learning from its concept of preventing and resolving contradictions, the principle of multi-party participation, collaborative governance, the use of information and intelligent technology, and the concept of people-oriented, college student work can continuously innovate working methods, improve work efficiency, and provide more powerful support and guarantee for the comprehensive development of students.

"Fengqiao experience" emphasizes the concept of preventing and resolving contradictions, which is of great guiding significance for the work of college students. The principle of multi participation and collaborative governance in "Fengqiao experience" provides a new working mode for college students work. The information and intelligent technology used in "Fengqiao experience" provides new technical support for college students work. The "Fengqiao experience" embodies the concept of people-oriented and focuses on the exploration and stimulation of individual potential, which has far-reaching implications for the work of college students.

5 Application strategy of "Fengqiao experience" in college student work

5.1 Prevention first: learning the prevention concept of "Fengqiao experience" and building an early warning mechanism for college student work

Prevention first means that in college student work, we should plan ahead, take the initiative, and put the prevention of problems in the first place. This requires college student workers to have keen insight and foresight, be able to discover and identify potential problems and risks in time, and take effective measures to intervene and solve them.

5.2 Student participation: mobilizing and relying on students' strength to improve students' self-management and service ability

In college student work, drawing on the principle of mass participation in "Fengqiao experience", mobilizing and relying on students' strength is the key strategy to improve students' self-management and service ability and enhance the effectiveness of work. Student participation means that in college student work, we should fully respect the dominant position of students, give full play to students' subjective initiative, and let students become participants and promoters of the work. This can not only stimulate students' enthusiasm and creativity, but also improve students' self-management and service ability, and lay a solid foundation for future social life [3].

It is an indispensable part of college student work to mobilize and rely on students' strength to improve students' self-management and service ability. By establishing a sound student organization system, carrying out rich and colorful campus cultural activities, strengthening the cultivation and selection of student backbones, and establishing an effective feedback mechanism, we can give full play to the main role of students, improve the comprehensive quality and ability level of students, and provide strong support and guarantee for the smooth development of college student work.

5.3 Multi party collaboration: establishing a student work pattern with the participation of schools, families and society

In the practice of student work in colleges and universities, learning from the principle of multi-party coordination in the "Fengqiao experience" has far-reaching guiding significance for the construction of a student work pattern with the joint participation of schools, families and society. Through multi-party cooperation, we can form a joint force of education and jointly promote the all-round development of students; at the same time, it also helps to improve the education quality and reputation of schools, and enhance the satisfaction and recognition of families and society towards schools. It emphasizes that in the work of college students, schools, families, society and other parties should form a joint force to jointly promote the comprehensive development of students. The application of this principle will help to break the limitations of the traditional student work mode and form a more open, inclusive and collaborative work pattern.

5.4 Innovative practice: combined with the characteristics of the new era, explore the innovative application of "Fengqiao experience" in college student work

Under the background of the new era, the work of college students is facing new challenges and opportunities. In order to better meet the needs of the development of the times, we need to explore its innovative application in the work of college students on the basis of "Fengqiao experience" and the characteristics of the new era. We can start from the following aspects to explore the innovative application of "Fengqiao experience" in college student work: first, using new media technology to broaden the channels and platforms of student work; second, innovating the content and form of student work based on the characteristics of students in the new era. At the same time, we can also introduce new working modes such as project-based and team-based to stimulate students' enthusiasm and creativity; third, we should strengthen exchanges and cooperation with the international community to enhance the international level of student work.

6 Conclusion and prospect

After in-depth discussion on the application of "Fengqiao experience" in the work of college students, we can draw the following conclusions: (1) In the context of the new era, "Fengqiao experience" provides new ideas and methods for the work of college students with its unique core concepts of prevention, mediation and mass participation. (2) By using the "Fengqiao experience" for reference, colleges and universities can more effectively deal with various problems in student work, which can promote the comprehensive development of students as well as the harmony and stability of the campus.

Conflicts of interest

The author declares no conflicts of interest regarding the publication of this paper.

References

- [1] Ding YY. 2024. "Fengqiao experience" and island grassroots governance: endogenous logic and realization path. Journal of Global Economy, Business and Finance, 6(1): 124-129.
- [2] Cai M, Liu QW. 2023. Research on the practical approach of rural governance from the perspective of "Fengqiao experience". Scientific and Social Research, 5(3): 98-103.
- [3] Guo K, Liu X, Li J. 2023. "Fengqiao experience" and the path of grass-roots social governance. International Journal of Frontiers in Sociology, 5(1): 25-30.